

People, Community and the Professions A LandTeam Australia Program

NSW Excellence in Surveying and Spatial

Information Awards 2013

People and Community Category

LandTeam

NSW Excellence in Surveying and Spatial Information Awards 2013

LandTeam Strategy 2015 clearly defines who we are at LandTeam and how we operate.

At LandTeam a core tenet of our Code of Ethics is a shared value of “social and environmental justice”

- we are socially and environmentally responsive with a tenet being to engage with and improve the amenity of the community and the environment in the areas where we operate our business.

A key strategic priority for our vision through years 2012 to 2015 is:-

Client and Community Engagement

To be proactive in meeting the needs and expectations of our clients and the community by positive promotion of our values.

So, it is not just about business at LandTeam - it is also largely about community and environmental engagement in terms of people, community and the profession.

How does a medium sized surveying and spatial consultancy firm live up to its core values and strategy in relation to people and community in a twelve month period?

It can be done very successfully.

This EISSI 2013 Award entry recognises LandTeam and its workers and the strategic program of community engagement that aims to contribute to and improve the amenity of the community environment within and around the LandTeam areas of business operation.

People, Community and the Professions

A LandTeam Australia Program

Greg Goodman

Managing Director, LandTeam Australia